

Document Excellence Group

The Document Excellence Group DEG (formerly the UK Document Excellence Group) is a global user group, developing best practice and promoting excellence in document production through knowledge and collaboration. There are nearly 1,000 individual members representing 400 organisations in 15 countries across both legal and financial services worldwide.

Members

Our members include IT staff (trainers, applications developers, IT Directors), lawyers, practice support staff (knowledge/precedent managers, document production, legal secretaries) and vendors – all those who recognise the importance of creating and maintaining trouble-free documents.

Standards

Since it was established, the group has worked to raise standards around document production and collaboration. The DEG Standard Styles framework, adopted by many UK law firms and precedent providers such as PLC and LexisNexis, was devised to bring stability and ease of use to legal documents while allowing firms to retain their individual identity and house-style branding. In addition, we work closely with suppliers in the market to ensure their services and products safeguard document integrity.

Events

Our flagship event is the annual Document Excellence Day – a free one day conference held in London each October, which attracts a range of national and international expert speakers. We also organise regional events and webinars to cater for our growing membership.

Information

The Document Excellence Group is run by an Organising Committee of volunteers. You can get more information by visiting their website at www.docexcellence.com or emailing them at info@docexcellence.com
